RESEARCH PROFILE

My research critically explores disinformation, 'fake news', racism and political struggles, particularly in connection to digital media and journalism. I have written on these topics in more than 15 peer-reviewed publications, featuring in international journals such as New Media & Society, Social Media + Society, Television & New Media and Critical Discourse Studies.

My debut monograph, Post-Truth, Fake News and Democracy: Mapping the Politics of Falsehood, was published by Routledge in 2019. Written with Jannick Schou, the book presents a critical examination of discourses around fake news and the post-truth era.

I am a frequent contributor to Danish and Swedish media on digital media, disinformation and democracy. In the past, I have also been Visiting Researcher at Cornell University, Chair of the Young Scholars Network of the European Communication Research and Education Association (YECREA) and speaker at institutions such as the German parliament (before the Council of Europe) and the Swedish Ministry of Culture.

I am passionate about teaching with experience in research methodology, philosophy of science, political communication, media theory, internet research and digital methods. I have taught at Malmö University and at the IT University of Copenhagen. I have also given invited lectures at the University of Pennsylvania, Brown University, Syracuse University, Rutgers University, the University of Antwerp, the University of Gothenburg, the University of Southern Denmark and more.

I am currently working on my PhD thesis, exploring journalistic coverage of disinformation.

'FUN FACTS'

- I am a first generation university graduate.
- I grew up in Copenhagen (Amager to be more precise)
- I have two daughters, Astrid and Olga.
- I used to DJ and was opening act for Snoop Dogg in 2012 in Copenhagen.
- I am still a big music lover and collect records.
- My father is from Hungary, but I unfortunately only speak a little Hungarian.
- I once made a joke about the length of academics CVs:
